Vestige & Lore Announces Debut Romantasy "Fae of Legacy and Lies," Weaving Welsh Mythology into Iron Age Wales.

Brush Prairie, WA — 10 July 2026 — Vestige & Lore is proud to announce the October 13, 2026, release of Fae of Legacy and Lies, the debut epic romantasy novel by M.J. Azinger. This immersive tale introduces a priestess exiled from Avalon, forced to navigate the treacherous landscape of Iron Age Wales to reclaim her legacy and unlock the power of her fae bloodline.

Priestess Mary has lived a hollow life on Avalon, silenced by her vows. Determined to awaken her dormant fae magic, she defies ancient law and briefly ventures to the mainland of Ancient Wales—an act that shatters her world.

Exiled from Avalon, Mary is hunted by the Grymadder and caught between meddling goddesses, a beguiling warder she cannot afford to trust, and her fae tribe calling to be freed from beyond the veil. Now, Mary must decide if her fae heritage is her greatest weapon—or her deadliest curse.

Perfect for fans of the high-stakes Fae magic of Sarah J. Maas, the capable heroine in From Blood and Ash, the intrigue of Outlander, and the mythic atmosphere of Daughter of the Forest, this immersive, slow-burn historical romantasy explores the struggle for identity and the courage to forge her own path. With themes of forbidden love and fated mates, this tale—where Cymraeg whispers within the fraying mists—is an essential read for those who crave origin stories that expand the heart of Avalon and Arthurian lore with Welsh mythical beings and beasts.

“I wanted to create a novel that weaves Welsh—a language that has suffered historical oppression and faced extinction—into a magical historical setting that brings Welsh folklore to life in a slow burn fantasy,” says M.J. Azinger. “Set in Iron Age Wales, a time when the Romans near a second invasion, mythical beasts, fae, and deities lend magic to the world-building in a race for survival in the Mortal Realm.”

M.J. Azinger writes fantasy full time. She has a B.A. in linguistics and enjoys bringing her love of language and all its folklore into stories you can’t put down. She has traveled to mystical sites in Europe and the Middle East and walked the trails of her characters for inspiration in the series. She lives in the Pacific Northwest alongside her real-life hero husband and her hurricane-like dog. If she’s not writing or reading, you can find her exploring mystical sites, combing the beaches, fishing, or hiking in the mountains. You can find her at mjazinger.com
